LADIES COMBINATION UNDER-GARMENT.

Fine cambric, Lonsdale muslin, jaconet, Persian lawn or mainsook are all sultable materials for this serviceable little undergarment, which is a combination of three garments—corset cover, drawers and petiticoat. The fullness of the round neck is regulated by a narrow ribbon-run bending and finished with a narrow Vaienciennes lace edging, the armholes being finished with similar beading and edging. The lower edge of the garment has a medium wide ruffle of the material finished with the edging. Many of these combination garments this year are being made of China silk or messaling trimmed with fine lace. The silk takes up very little room and is less ensily mussed than the muslin or naintook garment of the same character.

The pattern is in seven sizes—32 to 44 inches bust measure. For 36 bust the combination requires 3½ yards of material 36 inches wide or 3½ yards of material 36 inches wide of the combination requires 3½ yards of material 36 inches wide of 3½ yards of material 36 inches wide or 3½ yards of peading. 3 yards of ribbon, 4½ yards of narrow edging and 6 yards of wide edging.

Price of pattern, 10 cents.

"Oh, husband, wake up!" cried the
wife, in affright,
"I am afraid there's a burglar down stairs.
"Go down, then," said hubby: "you told me last night
Not to meddle in household affairs."
—Boston Transcript.

A remarkable effect of pile driving was lately observed at Rotterdam. On withdrawing some piles that had been sammed through quicksand by 150 to 200 strokes per minute the points were found to be charred by friction and they ignited spontaneously on contact with the air.
